

The Brown Paper

V.0.1

Redefining the value of bullshit.

This Brown Paper describes the implementation, deployment and currency usage of the Bullshit (BSH) ERC20 token. It is the ultimate proposition for future markets in this promising new field.

Bullshit Token

There is so much crap whose importance is underestimated. There is so much bullshit that goes unreported and thus unnoticed. Sadly, however, there exists no recipe for delivering any collective appreciation of the amount of bullshit out there in the world. No tools to help communities unveil and expose the significance of nonsense.

Bullshit (BSH) is the first ERC20 token to facilitate the expression of appreciation for bullshit.

We all think differently and we're all free to bullshit and try to get away with it. This, we believe, is why there is incredible value in offering free-market players the opportunity to express their appreciation for bullshit.

Bullshit redefined

The beauty of the term – and the concept – resides in the freedom it provides its users to expose crap. Bullshit is a term that obviously comes with different flavours, odours and meanings. The following scale illustrates the varying degrees to which prospective crapologists can express themselves on this topic. Which shade of brown best describes the degree of Bullshit you perceive when you ponder it introspectively?

It can be used either to express the action of bullshitting or to express one's experience of an encounter with bullshit. The amount of BSH you expend is entirely up to you.

Vision

Our goal is to revolutionize the economy of appreciation by quantifying the invaluable, namely, bullshit.

We want to provide an opportunity for people to express themselves by spending their BSH tokens on the bullshit they come across. We imagine a future where much value will come from awareness of the amount of bullshit associated with a project or online entity. The Proof-of-Bullshit decentralized consensus mechanism ensures that the recipient addresses marked as Bullshit are marred with bullshit forever.

Team

Our team is composed of people with extensive experience in bullshit and bullshitting. In short, bullshitters.

Currently Developing

We are developing a simple user interface that allows users to browse through the statistics of ICOs that contain BSH coins sent to their addresses. We will also soon be creating a tip bot that can be layered on any platform such as Reddit, so that users can seamlessly send BSH.

In the near future, we'll have a total monopoly over a gigantic pile of bullshit. Indeed, we've got plans to set up virtual reality playgrounds where people can build piles, play around in them and show them off to their friends.

Finally, we plan on selling our very own Bullshit Spray™. This will be available in two versions: an eau de toilette and a repellant (extracted from certified organic rhinoceros dung).
